

This Week in Review – June 17, 2022

Highlights from this week

- S671 – failed to concur in the House Committee substitute with a vote of 0-42. It would allow schools to use virtual learning days in cases of inclement weather. It would let schools apply for virtual academies for synchronous and asynchronous learning. Also, it would make the two virtual charter schools permanent and raise enrollment caps by 20%, despite these schools being labeled “continually low-performing” by DPI. Learn more.
